Bio

Daniel Waldron was born in Rochester New York in 1980. He is currently working his way across New York State and splits his time between Brooklyn and Long Island. He wipes the sleep from his eyes every Monday morning to teach printmaking and design wallpaper in Amagansett. To see the Applied Arts catalogue please visit www.appliedartsschool.com.

In addition to his work in monoprint, silkscreen, and woodcut, he has also been in many bands including: Bacchinale, Fork+Knife, Hawijah, and Jet Jaguar. Daniel is the founder of the website www.saddercity.com and curator of artists involved. He is devoted to change, an active member of counter-culture and sworn enemy of the neo-con.
